

Brief Bio: Barton Alexander

Bart is Principal of Alexander & Associates LLC, a Denver-based consulting business that helps individuals, teams and organizations to achieve meaningful and sustainable change. His career has focused on aligning business, government and NGO resources to achieve significant social, environmental and economic progress.

Bart recently served as Chief Corporate Responsibility Officer for Molson Coors Brewing Company where he successfully integrated corporate responsibility into company strategy and culture. During Bart's tenure, Molson Coors was recognized as the most sustainable beverage company in the world by the Dow Jones Sustainability Index, a leader in climate change action by the Carbon Disclosure Project, a Newsweek Green sustainable company and a Top 100 Corporate Citizen by the Corporate Responsibility Magazine.

Prior to his corporate role, Bart served in senior public leadership roles in economic development, jobs programs and health and human services at the federal, state and local levels.

Bart serves on national and local non-profit boards including Chair of the Spring Institute for Intercultural Learning, Vice Chair of Capitol Hill Community Services and director of the Denver Council on Foreign Relations.

Bart holds a MSc from the London School of Economics, a BA magna cum laude from Harvard College, and served as a senior Executive Fellow at the Harvard Kennedy School. He is a guest lecturer in business school classes for local universities.

Bart is married to Joan H Alexander, an executive coach and change management consultant with whom he founded Alexander & Associates. He is the father of a college sophomore and high school senior.
